

Turning Point Scotland 218 Service Users

What is Turning Point Scotland 218 service?

The service is for women involved in the criminal justice system. It is a criminal justice service and we can support you with drug/alcohol use, offending behaviour, physical/mental health, accommodation and social needs.

The service also has a 12 bed residential unit as well as a day service programme.

What do you do?

You will be allocated a key worker that will work with you on your goals and support you while in the service. You can take part in varied group work and also have regular 1-2-1 sessions.

We can help you access a clinic for mental and physical health, a dietician, dentist, doctors and nurses either in-house or within your local community depending on your stay within residential or our day service.

Regular reviews are held and the community workers involved in your care can attend to discuss your progress and make plans for the future.

Offending

The service will support you with outstanding court cases and other criminal justice issues. We also provide group work which involves sessions on looking at your past and present offending behaviour.

We take referrals from social workers, courts, lawyers, criminal justice, addiction workers and self-referrals.

Advice is available on welfare entitlement. Alternative therapies are offered which can help you to detox from drugs/alcohol and manage your stress.

What I like about the service?

“It is a safe place for women to get help to deal with our problems.

The service is confidential and only workers and others who I chose to tell know that I am attending.

It breaks up my day and saves me from being bored. It has helped me to have a better routine in my daily life and has reduced my substance misuse and offending.

It also gives me the chance to meet up with women in the same situation as myself and we get to chat and support each other.

During your time at 218 you are supported to find out who you are. The staff help you to figure out what you need, not what you think you need.”

There is always a member of staff on hand 24/7 to support you.

How do I access the service?

Your criminal justice worker can make a referral. You can also refer yourself to the service. You must be currently involved in the criminal justice system or have been in the past 12 months.
